STUDENT COUNCIL

The shutter clicks . . . we are face to face with those emotional moments that we re-live in memory from time to time . . . our first meeting with Cris . . . the Rebel flag going up in smoke . . . that great act from Palladium . . . finals in December . . . Christmas 1971 celebrations . . . those inviting Spring days . . . the announcement of new cheerleaders . . . those times are told here.

STHGHIGH

Chargers enjoyed the patio during the few sunny days of the wettest fall in San Antonio.

One of the favorites of the Palladium performers was Lynn Issacks who sang folk songs.

August 16, 1971 . . . school starts . . . in August! Chargers shuffled into WC that first day to receive a schedule and discuss the new things the summer had brought. There were new administrators, a new smoking area, but most of all, a new dress code. Churchill had become the most liberal North East school in grooming requirements and Chargers were elated. Our football team was an early-season choice as the city champion and with the satisfying win over Reagan, everybody thought only of the Lee game. But school was more than football. We had eleven merit scholars, a new foreign student, a new Statesman, new class officers, testing, assemblies. October 29 arrived. We had fought, and we remained undefeated: Churchill 7, Lee 7

Arriving at the airport in August, Cris Ramirez, Churchill's exchange student for 1971 1972, rushes to be greeted by her American "sister," Karen Mahler.

We arrived in August

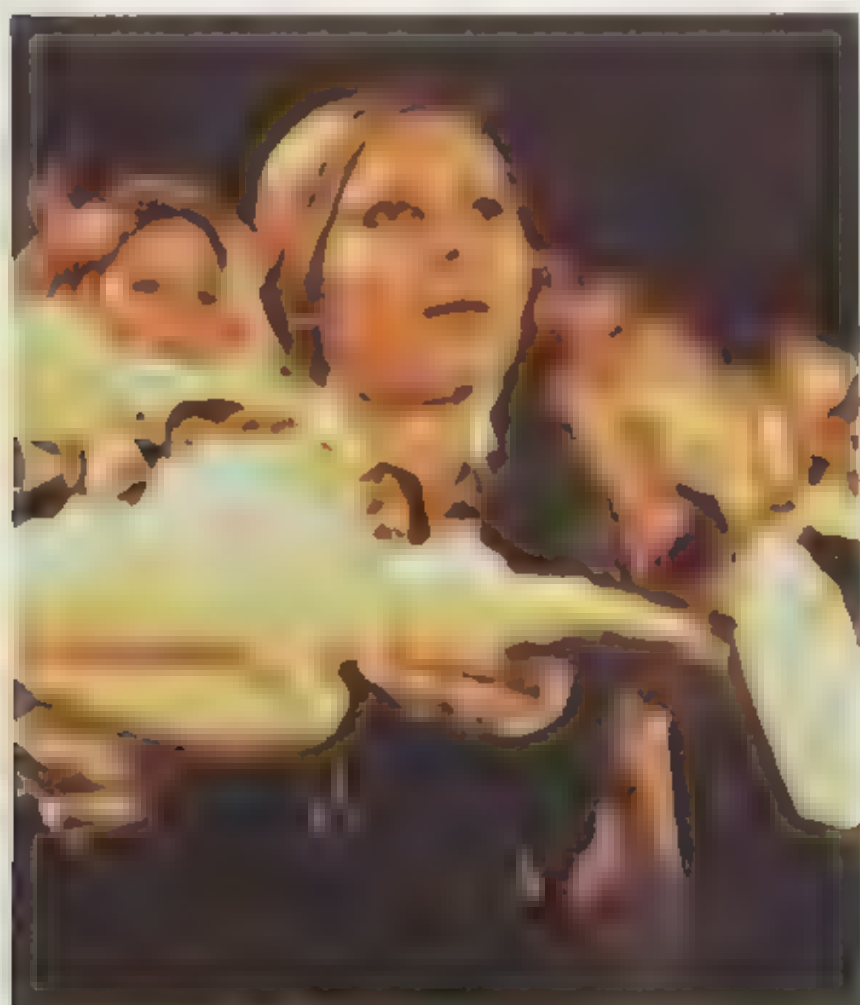

It was a year of big moments

Victory over Reagan! The win is assured as the scoreboard shows with the Chargers out in front 20-15 and 3:55 left to play, Chris Warren carries for WCHS

Sixth period spirit squad, self-appointed, rallies support for the Chargers just before the school day ends on Oct. 29—the day Lee didn't win

It's over. We didn't win, but we didn't lose. The tears of disappointment on the face of senior Nancy Zalontz sum up Charger emotions.

A Rebel flag, procured from Lee High School during noon time skirmishes on the day of the game, is displayed before it goes up in smoke at an impromptu rally

Half the year was done

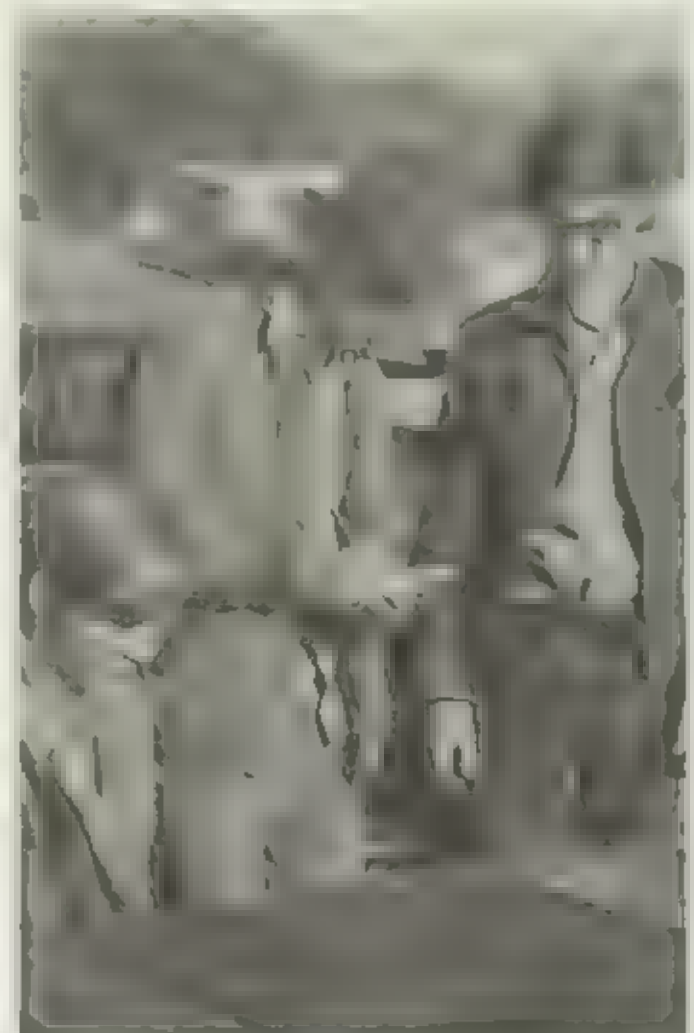

We cooled with the weather, we became accustomed to early rising, research papers were due, the Rat Patrol was organized. Christmas was coming and clubs sold everything in the name of Yule. Exams before Christmas . . . an experiment this year . . . we took them. Theatre of the Absurd, the Twelfth Night Ball and holidays. Half the year was done.

Enacting a political farce, members of the Theatre of the Absurd cast add to the year's drama productions

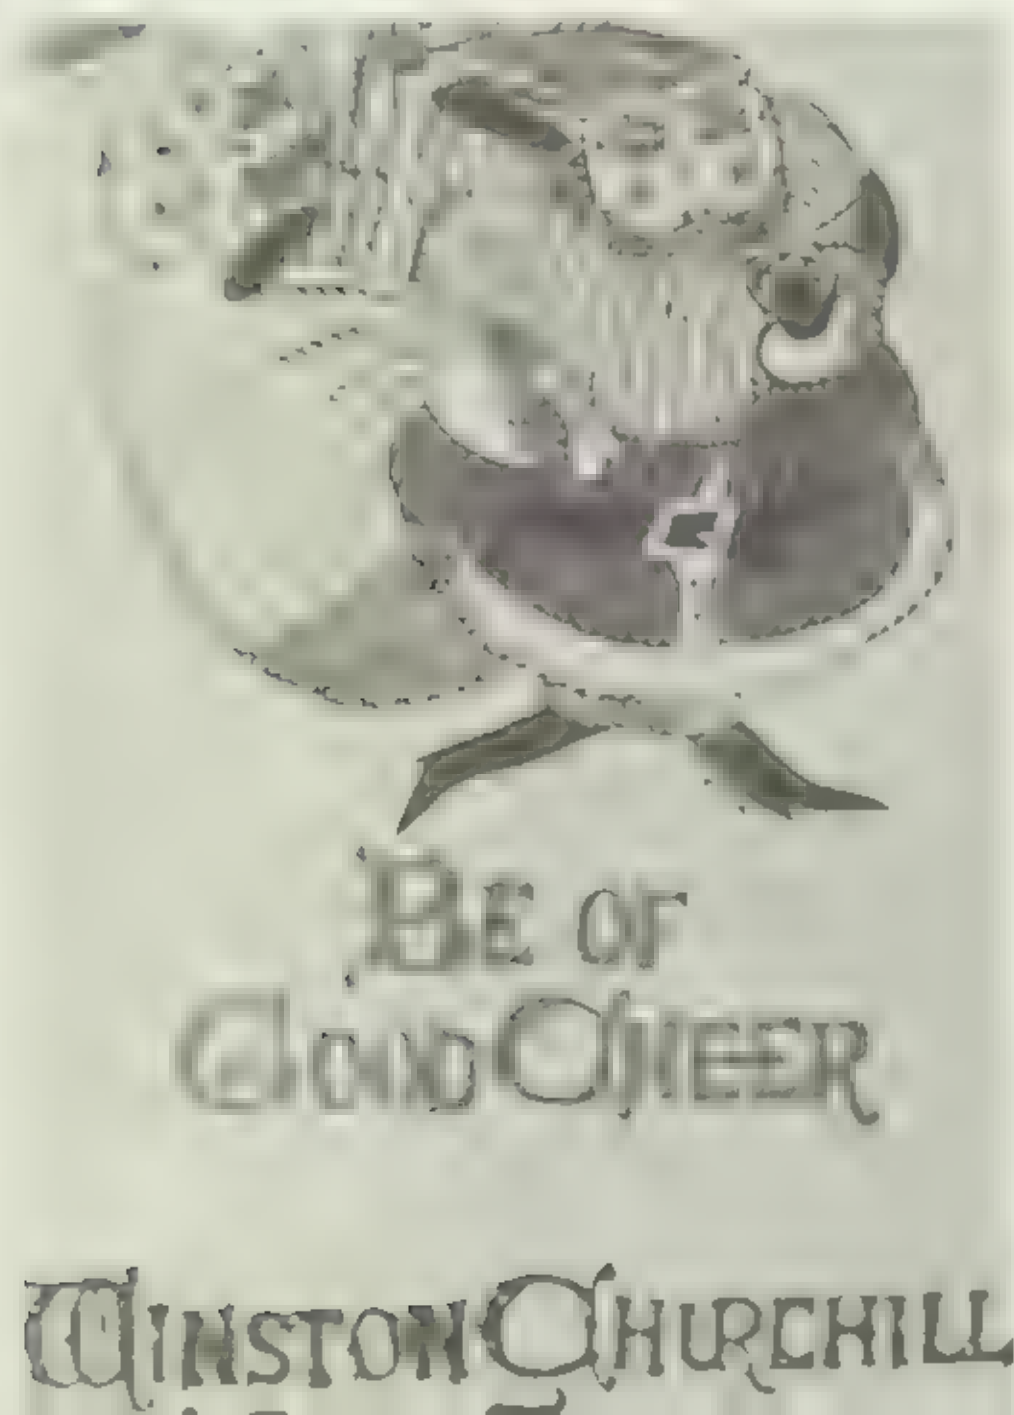

Taking semester exams before Christmas for the first time, and probably the last, these students wonder if they'll ever be out for the holidays.

Another violation is discussed by the newly formed Rat Patrol.

Happiness, along with King Chris Warren, and his Queen Kandy Dinkins, reigns at the 1971 Twelfth Night Ball.

Even the weather changed

Robert White starred in the drama production of "The Wizard of Oz" one of the few activities of school-wide interest this six weeks

The fourth six weeks were very trying days. The students faced the remaining down-hill half of the school year. An intense anticipation of summer was implanted in the minds of Churchillites

Even the weather changed. A premature spring ushered in love, loneliness and laziness. During lunch, several students took advantage of the sun by moving outside. The football field welcomed frisbee tossers and kite fliers

But during school hours, it seemed too much for the mind to handle. School was just too bothersome

A tense group of Charger supporters watch the basketball team battle Holmes

Relieving the monotony of lunch, sophomore Loree Harman brings her guitar to sing among her friends including Debbie Blank and Barbie Flanner

Tears of happiness and sadness were shared in the same room as all the cheerleader candidates heard the final results

Churchill's "On the Spot" team retired under attack after smothering Lockhart and tripling Lee's score

Michelle Lamoureux proves her talents before the student body . . . she was later elected Varsity cheerleader

Spring vacation . . . ten days to be away from classes, to celebrate the season . . . to go to the coast. This was the highlight of the fifth six weeks. But we had too much to do at school to write off the rest of the year. We were rated No. 1 in the city baseball standings, the district literary meet was coming up, the prom and graduation plans were incomplete.

It was during these days that the Charger track team took the district championship, the "On the Spot" team wiped out Lockhart and Lee, and next year's leaders were elected.

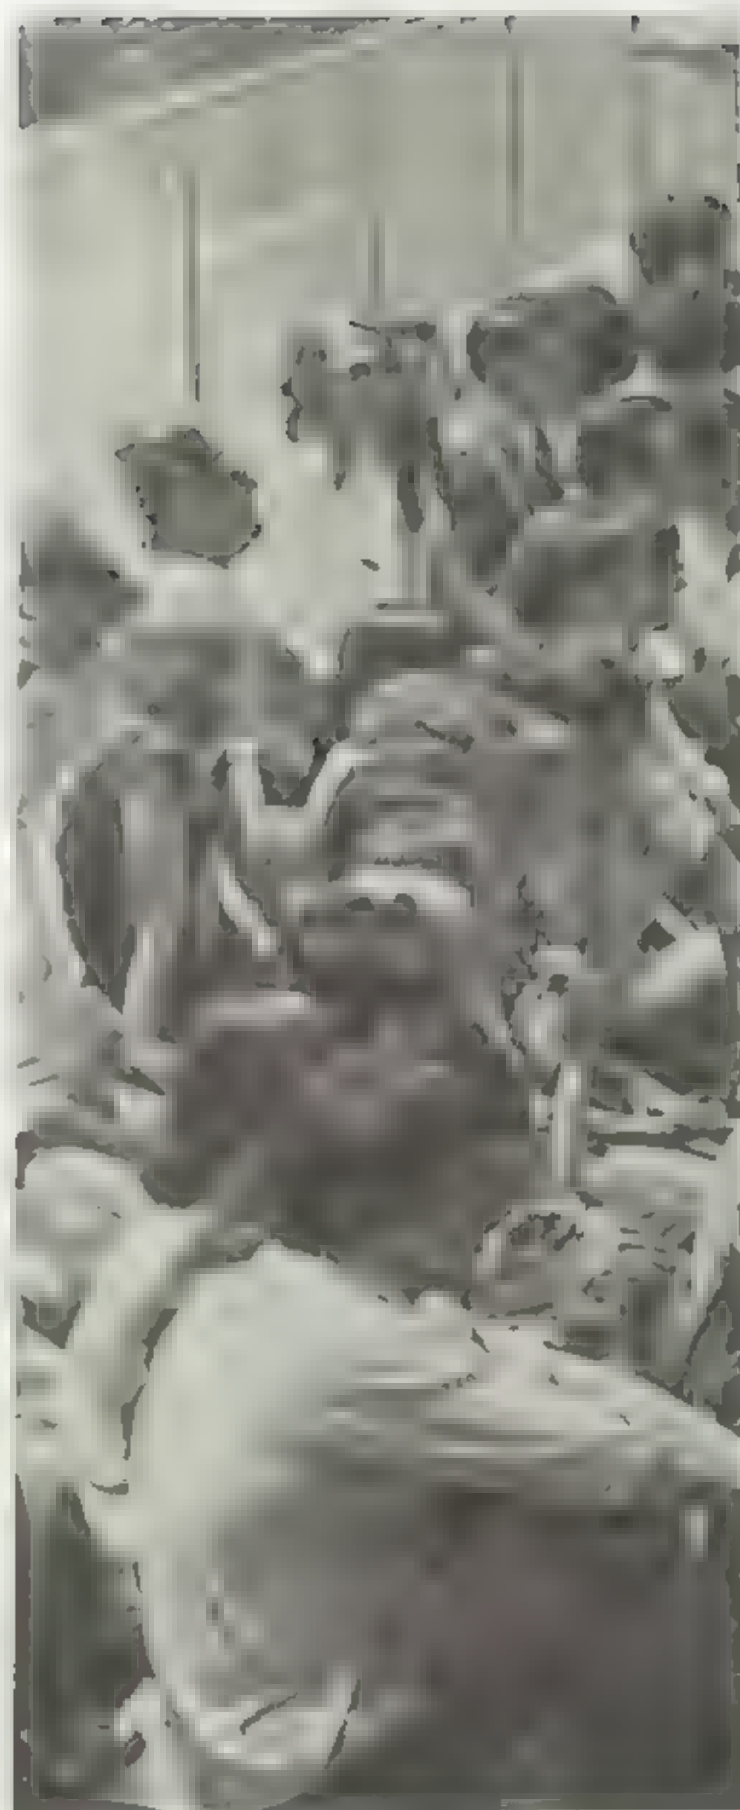

It ended suddenly

The last six weeks . . . sunburned and saturated we tried to tie up loose ends. The prom was yet to "bomb," the final UIL races were in progress, 18-year-old seniors suddenly became voters, and the Charger baseball team took district. Seniors reacted as if they were the first class ever to receive caps and gowns or invitations, and underclassmen studied for finals. The year suddenly ended . . . graduation . . . clean lockers . . . empty halls.

"The Caucasian Chalk Circle" was Churchill's entry in UIL One-Act play competition.

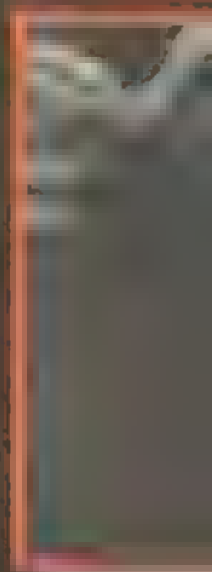

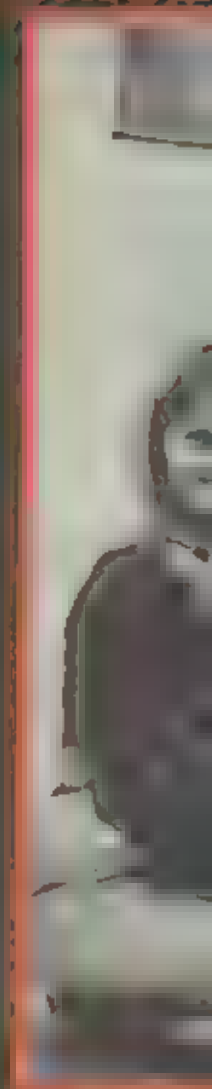

The Charger baseball team, the city's winningest, was thrown into a play-off tournament and fans trooped to Trinity to watch.

On a rainy Saturday in May many Churchill seniors like David Collins voted for the first time as 18-year-olds became eligible.

"The old order changeth . . ." and 1972 officers had little to do but congratulate newly elected ones.

Discovery . . . grasping the new

"Do you not see how that everything that happens keeps on being a beginning?"

Education is discovering an endless process of learning and stimulation, an entire realm of human experience. It is how each individual reacts to these discoveries that determines the success of his involvements

Humanities is a new experience course that Churchill has added to the curriculum recently. It enlightens students to philosophies from all parts of the earth, all areas of thinking, and helps them to formulate perspectives and patterns of belief of their own

Visiting the campus theatre of Trinity to explore man through seeing his plays is The Humanities class.

"†*†!" Mike Turner discovers one of the less pleasing facts of life

Communication is an individual art, a common tool to all, but molded to create personal means of sharing parts of oneself. Yet, to express is only half of the experience: to acquire the ability to communicate, one must have the will to listen to his fellow man and create the union that is communication.

Encouraging students to reach within themselves and to express complex ideas is one of the major aims of the recently introduced creative writing class. To use oneself as a source is an exhilarating and liberating experience, allowing the writer to be all he can be.

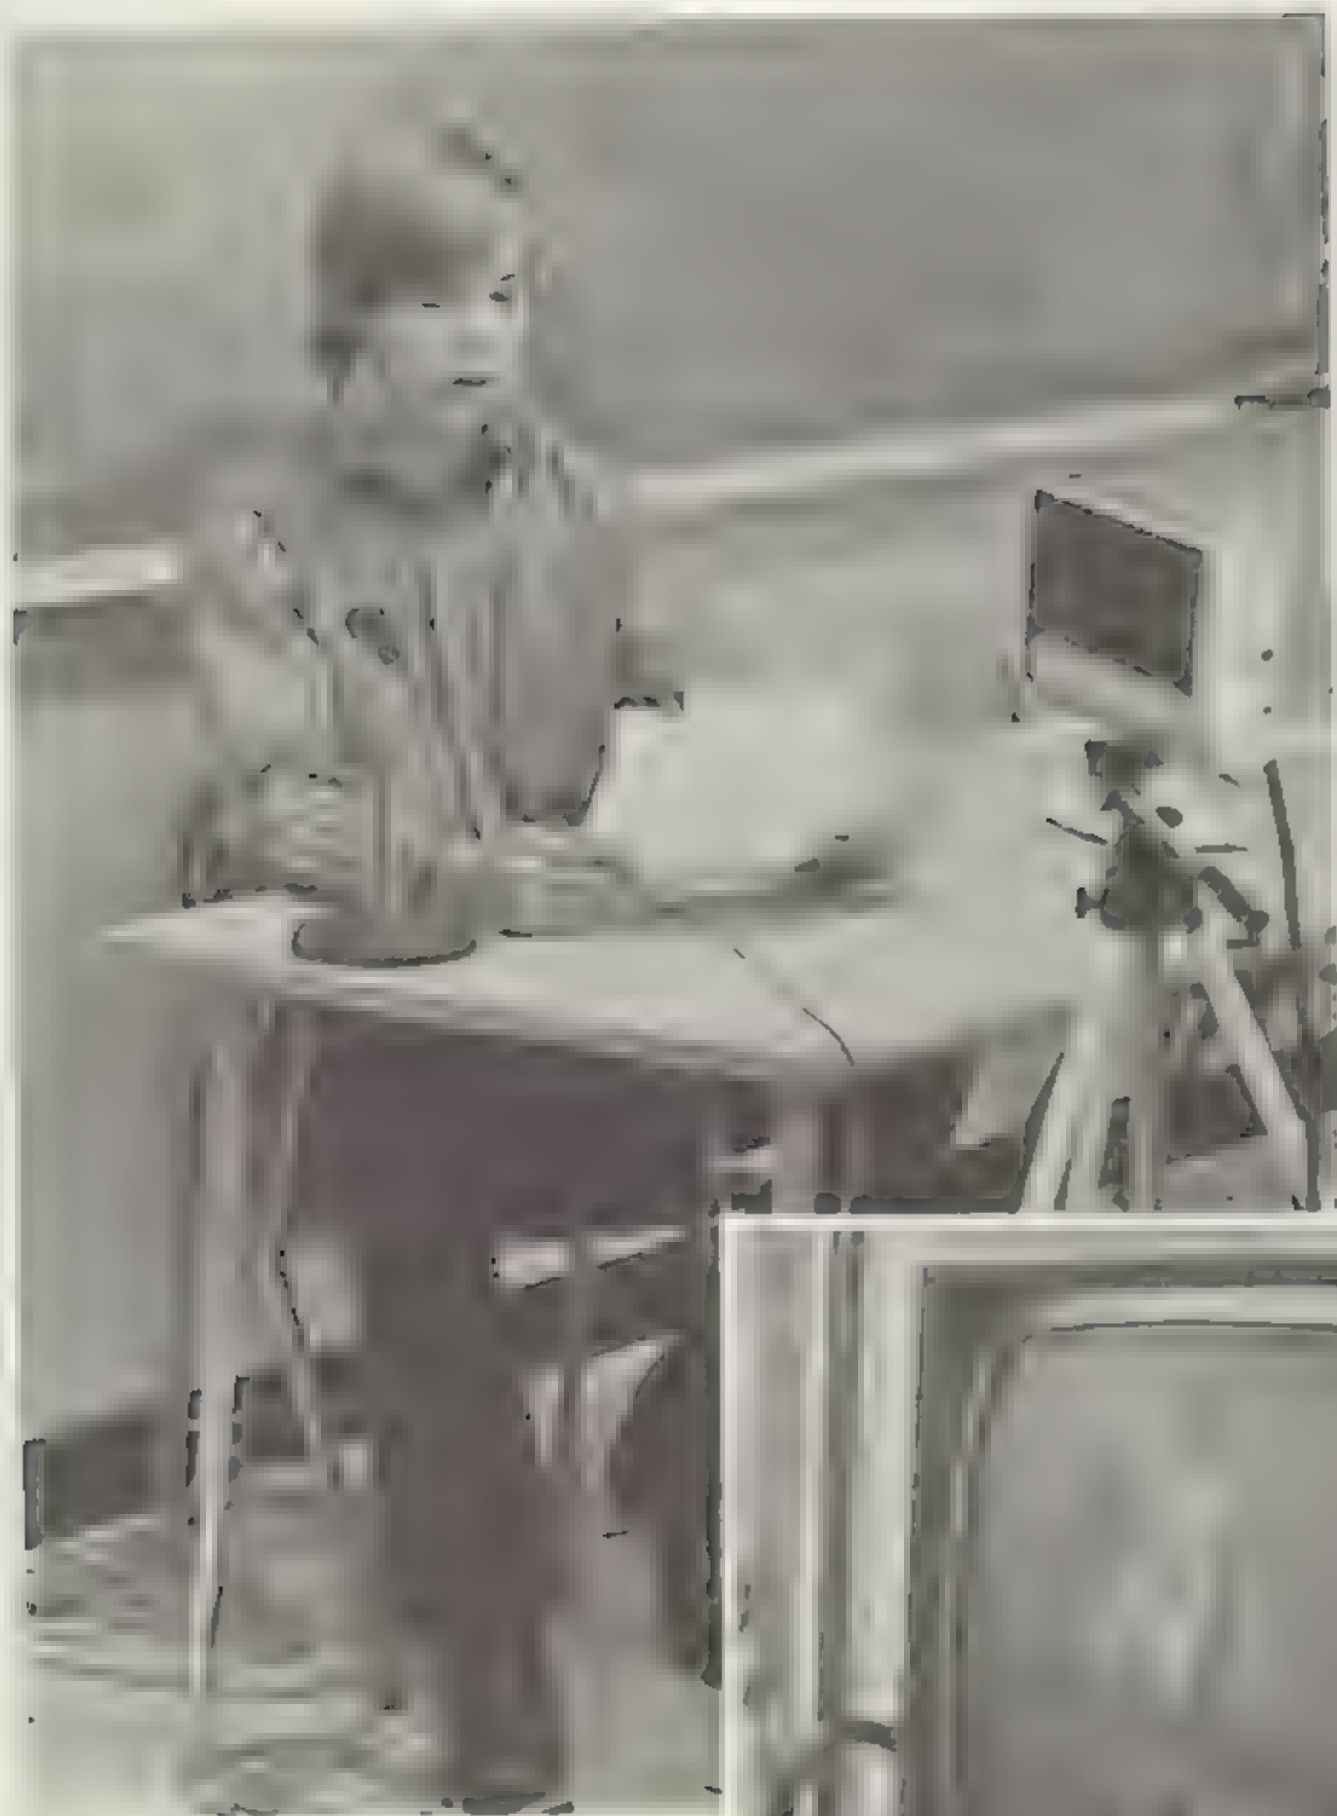

"This is Roger Speldin saying goodnight to Mother and Father America." Jerry Ellis signs off in his role for an English class skit.

The typing classes find numerous forms for communicating ideas on their typewriters—but pictures?

"Testing: uno, dos, tres!" Mike Ruff sharpens his Spanish vocabulary with the use of the language lab.

To become part of a team is to lend oneself to the importance of competition within a group. It is through participation one learns, and regardless of the result, there will always be a reward: a new involvement with life

The sports department prides itself in a varied program, abundant talent, and enthusiasm. Each coach tries to place the individual in an area best suited for him, while giving him a complete athletic background. Mainly, they stress sportsmanship, and instill the pride in being fair

Participation . . . becoming part of what's happening

For those who have the privilege of being a part of what's happening, it is a joy. It is a joy to be a man in the middle of the difficulties

Curiosity, constructively channeled, is a beautiful quality. The ability to ask how and why in an attempt to solve the puzzle of our environment and to comprehend the value of life are assets to every individual. The inquisitive person is a "try anything once" sort who views a discovery as a great reward.

Experimentation with identities is a function of the drama department. A student is able to find an entire new world waiting for examination, by delving into different personalities.

Unique at Churchill are the special effects, the types of drama such as THEATER OF THE ABSURD, and partial student supervision.

Experienced advice in the art of artificial respiration is demonstrated by expert lifesaver Gary Prior for a health class first-aid course.

"I can't believe they eat the whole thing!" In biology lab Scott Humphreys questions the enjoyment some people find in gulping oysters.

Creating . . . hands that speak

An idea with shape and texture . . . a thought that reaches foreign minds . . . a publicized perception. These are the concepts of creation. Artistry is the capability of portraying that which each of us is incapable of saying. To be a creator, one must be a carpenter of thoughts, building outward reflections of the inner individual.

The Churchill Art Department attempts to bring out the individual talent in students by making innumerable techniques available to them. The finished products mirror the extremely talented art teachers and students who believe in freedom of expression.

"We cannot learn from one another until we stop shouting at one another—until we speak quietly enough so that our words can be heard as well as our voices."—Richard Nixon

A voice that speaks authority, that assumes command with quiet efficiency and resolved maturity, this is the voice of tomorrow. In order to fill positions of responsibility, a constant concern to one's dependents, and involvements is demanded.

An example of building leadership qualities is the ROTC program at Churchill. As it equips its members with basic military knowledge, it gives them a sense of purpose and confidence that propels them toward positions of authority in the future.

Leading . . . a voice for tomorrow

Along with representatives from other North East schools are Churchill's Karen Hancock, Karen Mahler, and Bill White at a student conference with the superintendent.

Walking down the halls, these unidentified Chargers challenge a new frontier: their Home and Family lab

As a part of her Home Economics Co-operative experience, Mary Taylor helps serve refreshments at the Orange Goose school

Experiences in high school will constantly strive to bolster and complement the individual personality. They encourage the student to form and reach his own goals. He is instructed to find the way to wisdom, but he must pull himself to the level of acquired knowledge.

Freedom to explore is what Churchill tries to give its students. One way in which students are gaining experience is involvement in one of the work experience courses. They explore the world of business while gaining technical skills. From medical skills to sales work, students learn by a world that will become their futures.

NHS initiates 48 scholars

As a service project, the National Honor Society undertook patterning a young boy suffering from cerebral palsy and offering parliamentary procedure instructions to clubs. A bulletin board in the main hall sponsored by the society gave recognition to the outstanding students.

The goal poster for the Central Catholic game and a candy sale were other projects of the group which initiated 48 new members who qualified in the areas of scholarship, service, leadership and character. Miss Gerry Campbell and Mrs. Helen McDonald were sponsors with Mark Cunningham serving as president.

Bill Greendyke presided over the French Honor Society whose activities included sponsoring outstanding French students into the society and a Christmas party

The club began the year with 24 members and initiated 16 in October and 5 more in January. The promotion of an interest in French culture and recognition for outstanding French students are the group's purposes

Sponsored by Mr. Lydon Cole, the organization's other officers include Spencer Greendyke, Suzanne Barry, and Karen Weilbacher.

What could be a better way to promote interest in Hispanic studies than to visit Mexico and experience the Hispanic tradition first hand and to learn one-to-one from an import from Chile? An active, growing organization, the Spanish Honor Society initiated 48 new members in ceremonies in December. With foreign student Cris Ramirez as an honorary member, the group's activities this year revolved around Chilean culture with the celebration of Chilean Independence Day at a party one of the highlights. Box after box of Leche Quemada, a Spanish candy, were sold by members to finance a trip to Monterrey for senior members and a Christmas party.

Parliament . . . publishing, probing, prospering

"It's gone the way we wanted it to," Steve Harris, prime minister assessed the first semester of Student Parliament's work. The group published the student directory, sold publications subscriptions, and even themselves in the annual Slave Sale. They sponsored three dances: the Howdy Party, the Kick-Off Dance and the highly successful Twelfth Night Ball in December.

In an effort to devise a dress code acceptable to students, administrators and the community, the Parliament suggested a survey of the attendance area. District officials not only approved the idea, but adopted it as a district-wide project, giving rise to the student-parent-teacher-administrator committee which began in January to try to determine community feelings about a grooming code.

"Surely they're worth more than that!" pleads John Graham as Parliament members are sold as slaves.

Carousel . . . a colorful collection

Fortune tellers, kites and puppeteers . . . all were themes in literary materials reviewed by this year's staff which chose the name Carousel for the magazine. Poems, fables, short stories and other creative writings submitted by students for selection were reviewed by a staff of fourteen editors. The annual spring publication is a project of the Art and English departments under the sponsorship of Mrs. Fran Everidge. The result was a colorful collection showing the creative ideas and moods of developing talents at Churchill.

The STATESMAN . . . sending out vibrations

The first issue of the 1971-72 Statesman promised more than a new format . . . it promised to send out vibrations "of what we are, what Churchill is and what we want."

Covering the moods and trends of the year, as well as the events, the newsmagazine reached 1400 subscribers with a total circulation of 1600.

Editor Bill White's "Fade In" column discussed the issues while Journalism I & II staffers covered in news and featurized trends from Witchcraft to the Jesus Revolution.

Karen Cason, managing editor, was named the publication's outstanding staffer, Bill White won the state AAAA featurette writing competition and photographer Bob Hackett won third in the state in sports photography.

"Every Picture Tells a Story," or so the song goes, and the 1972 Chancellor Staff, using the song title as a theme, had a lot of pictures to take and a lot to tell

Deciding early in the year to revamp the format in order to tell the story of 1972 in a logical, fair, factual, and colorful way, the staff began work under the leadership of Susan Richards as editor in-chief.

Working through the Christmas holidays, staffers met the first deadline of 100 pages by Jan. 15 and celebrated with a Pizza party. But another deadline loomed . . . 100 pages more in March . . . and 187 due in May.

Most students attended club meetings a couple of times a month and one or two big events at night. Yearbook staffers, especially photographers, made every event every day and every night in order to cover the year's events

Proof sheets appear, editors select photographs they need, page layouts are designed, copy is written and the shipment goes to press. Nothing to do but wait until that August day when a freight truck rolls up to the loading zone with 1,400 1972 Chancellors. Every picture will tell a story—the story of 1972 at Winston Churchill High School. We did it.

Raising funds to support Churchill's next foreign student and making the current visitor feel at home is the purpose of the International Relations Seminar, but members often find themselves involved in local seminars and the activities of the American Field Service. During Fiesta Week, the organization helps host foreign students from around the state who visit San Antonio. Cris Ramirez, the 1971-72 student from Chile, participated in IRS events including Trick-or-Treating for funds, car washes and foreign food and bake sales.

ROTC . . . a perfect score and polished service

When the US 5th Army's Federal Inspection team visited Churchill's ROTC unit, the team received a perfect score although no citation could be awarded because a battalion must have at least 100 cadets to be considered. In 1971-1972, Churchill's unit was 81 in number. Two cadets, Capt. Van Pinner and Lt. Charles O'Kelley, received four-year scholarships when a two-star general landed his helicopter on the football field to make the presentations personally. The Military Ball in January was the annual social highlight, and cadets were pressed into duty as guides and ushers for the PTA Open House and various sports activities.

The Black Watch Drill Team is commanded by LtC Joseph Chandler, Cadet Cap. Van Pinner and Cadet Sergeant Steve R. Tripp.

Outstanding leadership characteristics must be exhibited by cadets initiated into the National Society of Pershing Rifles High School Affiliates group known as the "Black Jacks."

Christmas was a busy time for Anchor Club girls. They set up a tree in the cafeteria and sold ornaments to students who labeled the balls and thereby donated 15 cents to the club's project, the San Antonio Children's Shelter. Gifts for senior citizens at Morningside Manor were provided for the Yule season by the group of girls who are a sisterhood dedicated to serving the school and the community.

Led by President Paula Crouch and sponsored by Mrs. Louise Linman, the group of 40 girls climaxed the year with a week-end outing and an installation banquet.

From Rummage sales to air shows . . .

The 1971-72 Leo Club initiated new members and announced Linda Gauntt as the chapter sweetheart in February Speaking at the formal initiation in Churchill's auditorium is County Commissioner Tom Stolhandske.

Helping the Lions Club conduct an air show in Devine was one of the first activities of the busy Leo Club. One of the first dances of the year, a masquerade termed "A Sea of Madness," was sponsored by this group.

Service projects such as collecting for the March of Dimes and hosting a Christmas party for the Boys' Club make up much of the organization's schedule, but local activities such as initiations, Christmas parties, and a showdown on the basketball court against the Anchor-Key Clubs team provide the members with memories of a swinging club.

Describing the Leo-sponsored Rummage Sale, one member recalled buying a pair of cut-offs, a place mat, a twist-'n-trim board . . . all for 30 cents!

In more serious moments, members heard County Commissioner Tom Stolhandske speak at formal initiation ceremonies in February.

Teachers went to the Lee game in style, sporting Mums and boutonnieres provided them by the Key Club, an organization which serves the school and the community. One of the most outstanding goal posters designed by a club during football season was a result of Key Clubbers' work. Sponsored by Mr. Kurt Hartman, the boys spent one Sunday at North East Preserve cleaning up the park in an ecology effort. Key members allied with Anchor Club girls in a basketball challenge against the Leo Club; the Anchor girls were victorious; the Key boys, the vanquished.

and Mary Ann Prather show their spirit keeps on going

Cheerleaders came home from summer camp at SMU with five first-place ribbons and the spirit stick, honors enough to be the first group pictured on the Super Charger board for 1970-71. After months of preparation uniform planning, breaking in new "Rah-rah" shoes and perfecting every movement of every yell, the cheer leaders arrived at Blossom Stadium for the first game to perform in the MacArthur monsoon . . . to lead spirit in the first victory . . . to witness the last half almost alone as the crowd fled the storm

Much of the spirit fostered by cheerleaders behind the scenes are never known—painting banners, planning pep rallies, bringing little gifts for "buddies" on the game days . . . all involved hours in addition to those actually spent in front of the student body. Kari summed up the year for the whole group by remembering the practices for camp, the snow at the end of the season, the pep rally with the Charger in the center, and the basketball players for breakfast . . . most of all supporting all our Charger teams.

Fresh from SMU camp, decked out in saucy red, black and white uniforms and knee-high boots, Churchill's first dance team couldn't wait for their premier performance at the first game of the year with MacArthur. They boarded the bus and headed for the stadium, only to remain on the busses the whole night because it rained and rained and rained

But there was always another game, and the Roosevelt tilt's halftime provided the opportunity for the 24-member group to bow before the fans and perform to the number, "Does Anybody Know What Time It Is?" The rest of the year was a breeze, and the several times the High-Kicks appeared on TV segments introduced them to the community. Basketball season was another chance to perform, sweaters and silver necklaces were rewards, and the outing at Centerpoint was part of a wonderful memory

Tryouts . . . a time of endurance, emotion

Much of the second semester was spent in getting ready for next year. Freshman had to try out for pep squad, pep squad had to try out for drill squad, drill squad members were eligible to try out for the dance team, and cheer leaders had to be chosen. A month was spent in workshops after school preparing for the big day before the judges and, in some cases, the student body. Announcements of results were emotional moments. New uniforms for the pep squad and drill squad were designed by Mrs. Forren and seniors took off for Six Flags for an outing. When the Charger baseball team made it to the play-offs, the spirit sections followed them to the end.

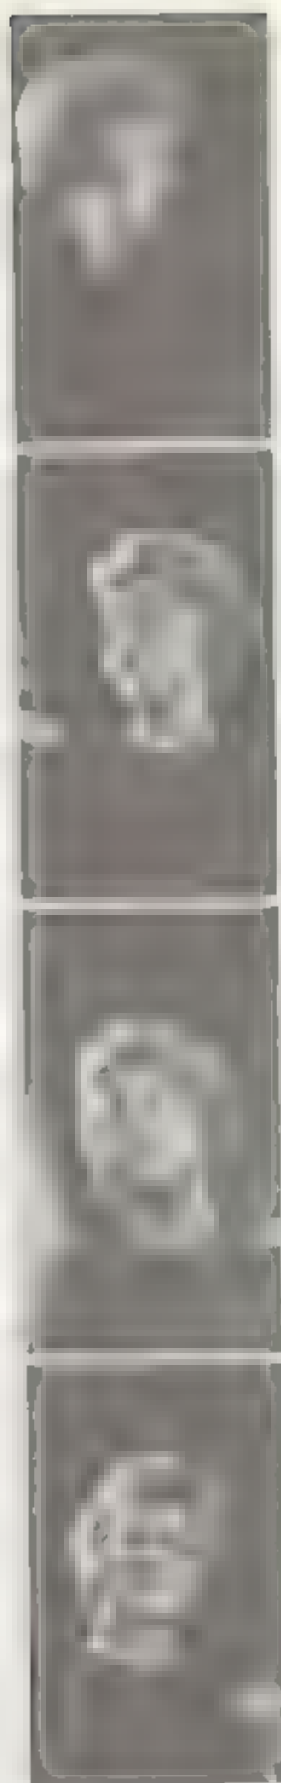

Phyllis Emerson, Mary Harris, and Susan Young execute their individual routine for the high-kick judges.

The Band—change, growth, and tradition

A common complaint among students at Churchill during August was the early starting date of school. The band had more to complain about than these apathetic students, for the band's year started early in July. Mr. Bill Skelton was appointed new band director with Mr. Thomas Kinsey as his assistant. Two weeks before school started, volunteers repainted the bandhall red, black, and white. The 125-member band began its daily routine of 7:30 a.m. practice the first week of school, preparing for their half-time performances. With the drum major and majorettes decked out in new uniforms, the band was forced to remain on the bus and watch the first game through a driving rainstorm. The group had one of W.C.'s best seasons ever, with the year's highlight being the circus performance at halftime during the Jefferson game. In November, the band received two 1's, in inspection and in marching. The bands announced Senior Karen Mahler as Band Sweetheart and Senior Matt Williams as the Band Beau at December Concert.

In March, the group received a I in sight reading and a III in concert to lose out in sweepstakes competition. Annual activities such as Daddy Date Night and the Mother-Daughter Banquet were part of the Future Homemakers calendar this year, but the chapter's most spectacular achievement came at the Area VII convention when Churchill senior Cathy Schneider, area parliamentarian, supervised the House of Delegates and the installation ceremony and Valerie Hopkins was elected Area VII treasurer for 1972-73. Christmas was a time for giving: members collected toys, clothing, food and personal items for needy families. Valentines Day was a time for love: members sold carnations and presented hearts to the buyers

HONORS

JEFF MONTAG

That measured, sophisticated voice Chargers heard every morning reading the daily announcements . . . and sometimes adding a commentary . . . belonged to Jeff Montag. A senior member of Parliament, a Charger tennis player, a member of the National Honor Society and one of the student representatives on the district's grooming committee, Jeff contributed to Churchill's leadership in 1971-72 and was a faculty choice as an outstanding student

KAREN HANCOCK

"If at first you don't succeed . . ." must have been Karen's motto. As a freshman, she ran for "every conceivable office . . . and lost every time." Fortunately, she tried again. As a senior, her list of accomplishments and honors is endless. One of the leaders of Parliament in her junior and senior years, Karen was chosen by her classmates as the Most Representative senior girl. For two years she served as an officer in Anchor Club and as a member of the Drill Squad. As a student government leader, Karen attended regular dialogue sessions with district administrators, represented WC at district social functions and presided at such Parliament activities as the Twelfth Night Ball

STEVE HARRIS

Parliament's presiding officer . . . the spokesman for WC in intra-school gatherings . . . leader of Charger delegations . . . Steve's office is an honor in itself. An All American swimmer in his junior year, he reached state competition as a senior and was captain of the team. Through his four years at WC, Steve has been a leader, participating in student government, numerous clubs and honor societies

IVAN HORNE

Ivan (Bucky) Horne's talents must have been written in the stars . . . or at least foretold at his naming . . . for a horn . . . a French horn . . . has been the instrument of his success. The Charger Band's outstanding member, Ivan was selected the Outstanding Youth in Music in San Antonio during Youth Appreciation Week proceedings. A collection of patches, medals and accolades for musical achievement from all-district to all-state band attest to his talents.

Wearing a tiara, long black gloves and a glittering uniform as a band majorette or decked out in jeans smeared with printer's ink, Karen is not only involved in Charger endeavors, she is dedicated to them. Managing editor of the news magazine, she represents the journalists as the outstanding staff member. A junior, Karen plays a trombone in the Charger Band.

There's a corner in The Pub where one wire basket sits atop another and another, and color charts, proof sheets, pica rulers and cropping wheels lie cluttering the desk of the editor of the 1972 Chancellor . . . Susan Richards. Her dedication to producing "the best yearbook Churchill has ever had" . . . her favorite phrase . . . earned her the honor of outstanding yearbook staffer. Susan found odd moments to be active in drill squad and Anchor Club . . . minutes when she escaped the press room to witness first-hand the events she had to be responsible for recording in 1971-1972.

Mark

Karen

Marguerite

Valedictorian of the Class of 1972, Karen, presided over the International Relations Seminar, was chosen sweetheart of the Charger Band and a National Merit Scholarship Finalist. The literary magazine, the Spanish Honor Society, the band and the Future Scientists elected her to offices. What did she do in her spare time? She taught remedial reading to underprivileged children. The DAR recognized her efforts by naming her the recipient of their Good Citizen Award, and her classmates chose her as the Most Accomplished senior girl.

Scientist, scholar, athlete, and leader . . . Mark served as president of the National Honor Society and the German Honor Society in 1971-1972. A future physicist, he served as a lab assistant in the science department. Baseball and basketball participation as well as the International Relations Seminar activities merited Mark's interest.

JAMIE LENZEN

The first picture snapped for the publications this year was one of Jamie Lenzen, a lieutenant in the newly organized dance team. And one of the last photos taken for the annual was that of Jamie as the outstanding member of that organization. Active throughout her four years in pep squad, drill team and finally the dance team, she was an officer each year. Charger cindersmen chose her as the Track Sweetheart in the spring.

BILL WHITE

One of twelve young people to be honored by the American Academy of Achievement at its annual convention in Philadelphia, Bill was the national champion of the American Legion Oratorical Contest in 1971. A National Merit Finalist, editor of the Statesman, and the winner of a state journalism contest, Bill served as mayor of San Antonio during Youth Appreciation Week. He is a member of "Who's Who Among High School Students" and he spent much of the year traveling across the United States speaking to such gatherings as the National Convention of School Superintendents and the National American Legion Convention.

LINDA GUANTT

If Churchill had an Oscars ceremony, Linda would be a sure winner. In her senior year she did everything from emceeing Palladium to singing the lead in Finian's Rainbow, and the seniors recognized her abilities by choosing her Most Versatile Girl. President of the National Thespian Society, Linda was crowned Leo Club Sweetheart, served as a drill squad officer and earned membership in the National Honor Society.

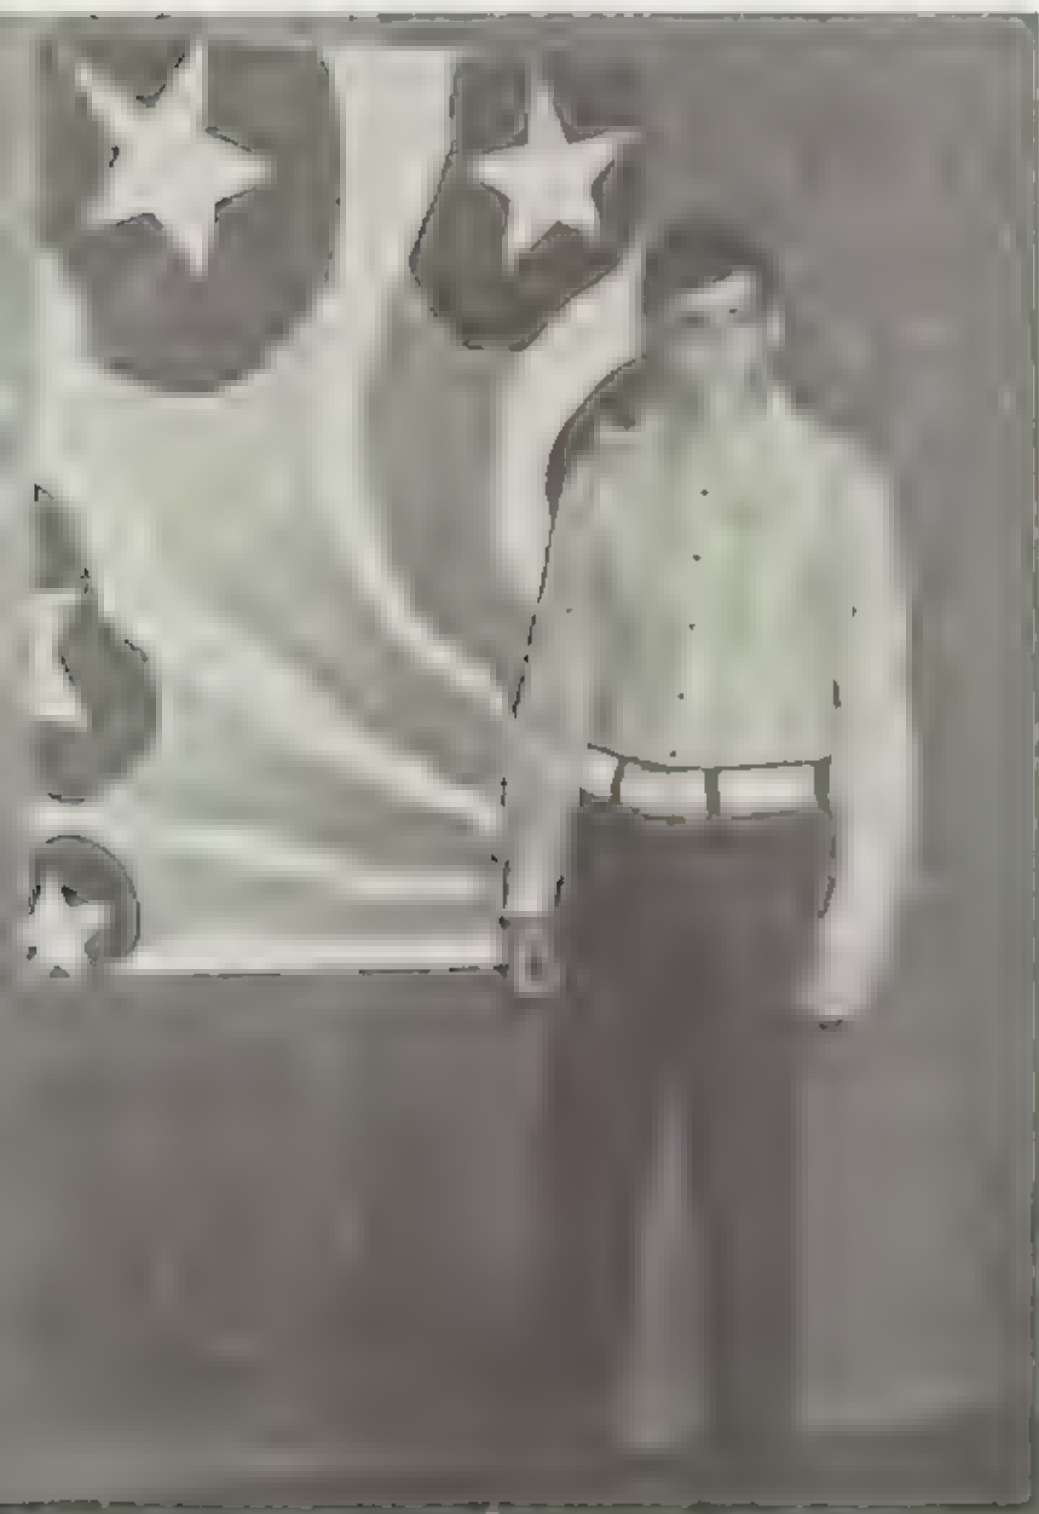

Jamie

JOE CHANDLER

"There is absolutely no question in my mind as to this young man's loyalty to his country, school and friends," Sgt. Longwood commented in announcing Joe as the outstanding member of the ROTC at Churchill. Joe attained the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and Battalion Commander in addition to being the Black Watch Drill Team Commander.

Bill

Patty

Barry

BILL GREENDYKE

Possessing a rare combination of personality traits, Bill is usually a quiet person, until the time comes to speak up for a cause. As Speaker of the House and president of the French Honor Society, he has demonstrated his leadership ability. Bill has received honorable mention in the all-district football list, participated in speech activities and was initiated into the National Honor Society and the Leo Club.

PATTY NIXON

Tennis, anyone? Patty is always ready for a game. A top-seeded player in the state and the daughter of San Antonio's Tennis Family of the Year, Patty's name is a by-word on the courts across Texas. At Churchill she starred in other activities . . . National Honor Society, Anchor Club, French Honor Society and the International Relations Seminar.

DAVID LESTER

David had a voice in a lot of things at Churchill . . . the Choir, the National Forensic League and the National Thespian Society. He sang his way to All-State Choir status, first-place in prose competition at speech contests and a lead in the musical, "Finian's Rainbow." Oddly enough, he still found time to announce our football halftimes and be a discjockey on his own radio show. David represents the choir as its outstanding member.

BARRY DAVIS

Many students are recognized for accomplishments in one field. However, some are able to excell in a myriad of activities, and Barry is one of those. An outstanding basketball player and co-captain of the Charger team in his senior year, Barry was president of his Junior Class, a member of the National Honor Society and the Leo Club. Barry was one of the honor-students-at-large, nominated by the faculty as an outstanding Charger.

CAROLYN CROWTHER

Commander of the Drill Squad, Carolyn was named the group's outstanding member. One blast from her silver whistle sends precision marchers into intricate patterns and controls the actions of hundreds of Grenadiers. Scholarship and service have been her attainments. Carolyn was a member of the National Honor Society, the Anchor Club and the International Relations Seminar.

LYNN ISAACKS

The crowd at the senior rock concert gave Lynn a standing ovation for her folk singing and she was one of the hits of the Palladium bill, but her soft folk songs are not her only credit. She was chosen by Parliament as its most outstanding member and was elected Speaker of the House for her senior year. A Leo Club member, Lynn served as one of the three students on the district committee studying dress and grooming, and she was only a junior.

DAVID MC LEOD

All-District, All-City, All-State and All-American honors were David's in his senior year as a Churchill gridman. The climax of his high school football career came in August when he participated in The Texas High School Coaches Association's All-Star Grid-iron Class in Houston. Scholastic magazine named David to All State and All-American teams. The Key Club was his main non-athletic activity in 1971-72.

CHRIS WARREN

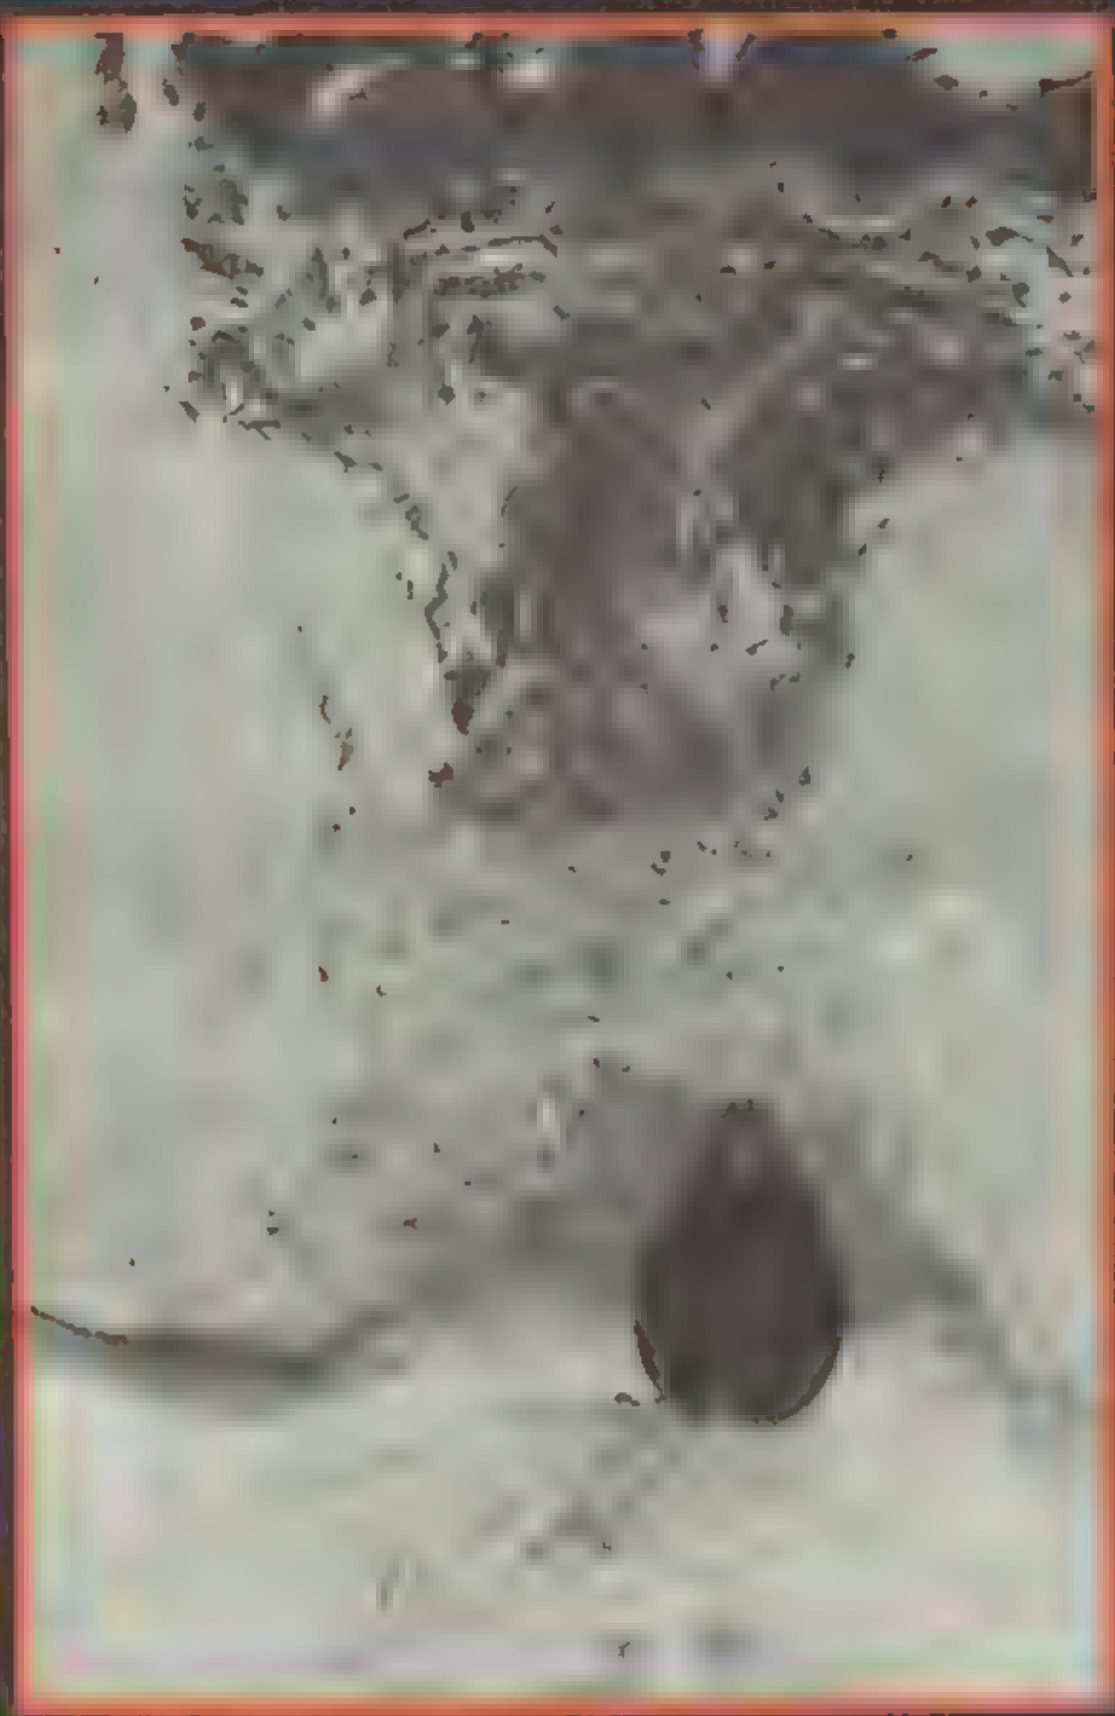

"Chris put a lot of medals on our table this year," Coach Rapp noted during track season, and the blue chipper who signed a football letter with Arkansas because of his grid prowess reigned as King at the Twelfth Night Ball and participated in Key Club activities. Now, that's versatility.

TOMMY BEPKO

"He could make anybody's ball club in this city," Coach Richard Scheppler assessed Bepko, the Chargers' ace pitcher who represents outstanding baseball players at Churchill. A four-year letterman in baseball and basketball, Tommy is an individualist who found Parliament another outlet.

Unbeaten Chargers miss playoffs

Unbeaten but uncrowned, the most successful team in Churchill's six year history missed a play-off berth by a half game. Registering an 8-0-2 season, the Chargers had to watch rival Lee High School represent 31-A AAA as the result of a 7-7 tie with the Volunteers.

Early August predictions gave Churchill the nod and ranked the Chargers as the city's best team. Following a string of early-season triumphs, WC was rated as high as sixth in the state by the Associated Press polls going into district play.

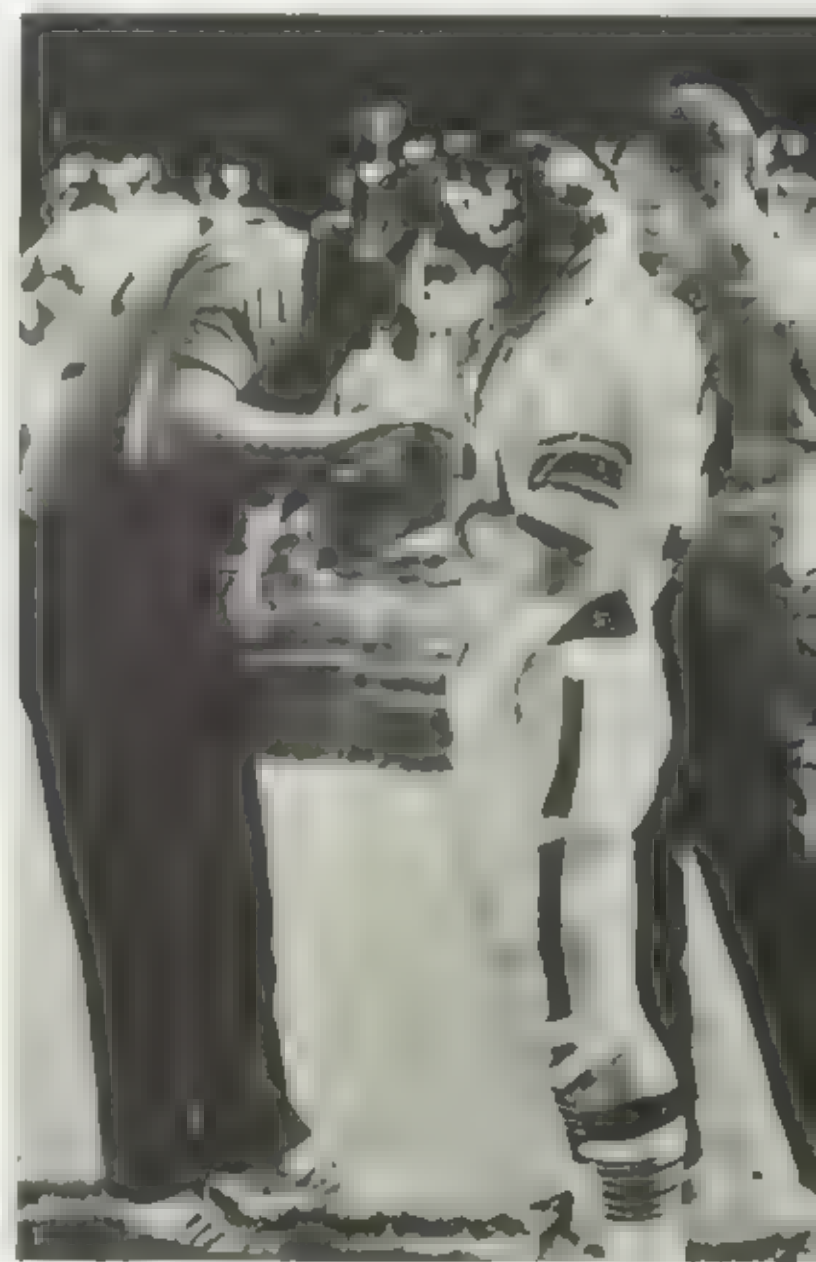

It was a 27-27 tie with Marshall that first tarnished a perfect slate and then, before 15,000 fans, the Chargers deadlocked with Lee 7-7 to fall a half game behind in loop standings.

Victories over Holmes and Jay were anti-climactic, but important for an impressive season record.

"We're undefeated, and don't you forget it," Coach Raymond Rapp reminded us.

An anxious Coach Rapp consults Coach Smith in a sideline strategy conference as Coach Davis keeps tabs on the action on the field.

Plotting strategy on the side lines, Head Coach Raymond Rapp instructs Tully Blanchard, the Charger field general

Ranked 1st in city and 31st in state, the Chargers launched what was to be Churchill's best season ever by battering five pre-district opponents

MacArthur was the first team to go down in a game that almost floated away. The Chargers won 21-7 in a driving rainstorm without throwing a pass.

Fumbles made the difference against an upstart Roosevelt ball club as the two teams collided before 11,000 fans. When the smoke had cleared, WC had crunched their way to a bruising 14-0 win.

Picked to lose by three touchdowns against defending state champion Austin Reagan, the Chargers went into the tilt with revenge and upset on their minds. When the final gun sounded, WC had combined pride, power and poise for their first win ever over Reagan, 20-15. This stunning victory moved the Chargers up to No. 8 in the state

Central Catholic was the next victim. Churchill overpowered the hapless Buttons, 44-0.

The Chargers made it two shut outs in a row in the next game with a 40-0 swamp of New Braunfels. The Unicorns could generate no offense against the strong Churchill defense

The stomping of New Braunfels completed pre district play with the Chargers going undefeated and pointing towards a showdown with the Lee Volunteers.

Deadlock with Vols destroys district dreams

The Chargers started district play rated among the top ten in the state with the rapidly approaching Lee game on their minds.

WC seemed to be thinking about things other than the Marshall Rams when the two teams collided at Northside Stadium. The Chargers played catch up all night and barely managed a 27-27 tie.

After the Marshall shocker, the Chargers regrouped their forces at Alamo Stadium to whip the upset-minded Jefferson Mustangs, 23-14. Lee was next.

The big shootout between WC and Lee took place before the largest crowd ever to witness a game at North east Stadium. The Chargers pushed the Vols all over the field, but as a final scoring try failed, the game ended in a 7-7 deadlock.

With visions of the district championship crushed, the Chargers had little trouble stopping the Jay Mustangs, 20-0.

The Holmes Huskies could fare no better against the bitter Chargers. They were never in the game as Churchill romped to a 49-6 victory, ending the season with an 8-0-2 record, the best in WC's history.

Lee went on to win the state AAAA crown, giving Churchill the title of the only team Lee couldn't beat.

Leading rusher of the Lee game, Markley Mills (44), is downed after taking the ball inside the Volunteers' twenty yard line. Mills rushed 98 yards on 23 carries and scored the Chargers' lone counter.

The Charger JV's gained valuable experience against strong opposition during 1971. Coach Wayne Korbell noted, "Although the record shows a 1-9 season, the boys showed excellent signs of development." He elaborated by saying, "The defense stood out a little above the offense." The young Chargers put it all together in the last game of the season, upending the Holmes Huskies.

Stifled by injuries, the Varsity roundballers posted a 10-15 pre-district record. As the season opened, the Chargers fell victim to the Unicorns of New Braunfels by the score of 49-40, but quickly redeemed themselves against San Marcos by winning 54-50. Pre-district went on its way with Churchill playing .500 ball most of the time. The New Braunfels Tournament was highlighted by Gene Sueltenfuss' making the all-tournament team as Churchill captured the consolation trophy by defeating Kennedy 59-50.

Mark Musson and Mike Young along with Sueltenfuss were consistently top scorers throughout the pre-district season. The injury problem kept the starting five from playing together the entire first half of the season, and as the Chargers prepared for district competition, they faced a high mountain to climb

Chargers contenders in district duels

Playing in 31-AAAA's unique two-round set up, Churchill's inexperienced squad managed to be contenders down to the final two games. The Chargers' second-round upset of the Lee Volunteers, who had just upended the state finalists Jefferson Mustangs, was a big moment and the results indicated the kind of district race it was. No one team had a lease on the district title until the closing games of the second round.

Led by Mike Young and Barry Davis, WC posted a 10-15 pre-district slate and headed into district counting on other starters, Mark Musson, Gene Sueltenfuss, Robert Ahr and Mike Laver. With thirteen of the fifteen players underclassmen, Churchill met with moments of frustration and unpredictable bright spots: a one point loss to Marshall, a two-point victory over Lee. It was that kind of season.

At the end of the first round, Churchill had downed only Jay and stood 1-4, but that experience began to pay off as the second round started and Coach John Hunt's boys bettered their record shocking Lee, downing Jay a second time and challenging Marshall only to lose a 42-41 heartbreaker. Jefferson, the district representative continued to the state AAAA finals.

Leaving the court at halftime in the first district game against John Marshall, are Eric von Merveldt (20), Mark Musson (54), Tom Pichot, and Leo Knapp.

Rebounding in the tense second round game against Lee is WC's Gary Kelly. The score was 49-47 and the Chargers were victorious!

Second-half wins signal JV spirit

Some gallant moments marked the JV season as the young Chargers learned what it was to come from behind in the last quarter to win, and to lose an important district game by one point. "We gained valuable experience," Coach Andy Jackson summed up

Golfers claim district medalist

Led by Jerry Smith, the district medalist, Charger linksters made the rounds of such impressive invitationals as the Border Olympics, the Del Rio, Pleasanton, Alice and Brady Invitationals, the Corpus Christi Golf Classic and the home-based North East Tournament before entering district competition.

Composed exclusively of underclassmen except for Smith, the golfers managed to place in several tourneys although the first-place trophy from Pleasanton was the team's only big win. The Charger Red team was third in the district tournament. The 40-member squad was under the direction of Coach Charlie Horn.

Trophies included the Red team's third place in the Corpus Classic, third in the North East Invitational and the top statue from Pleasanton. Smith was medalist in the Pleasanton event with a 37. Rene Landry was second medalist at Marshall and Pleasanton and Danny Monroe was second medalist at Brady.

The first Charger athletic team ever to reach state play-offs, the 1972 Baseball squad will go down in the record books as the district co-champions and 31-AAAA's representative in bi-district play. Rated number one in the city at the opening of the district race, WC held a 14-2 pre-district record and two major tournament trophies. Coach Richard Scheppler's senior ball club seemed destined to rule loop play, as the Chargers outlasted Lee 2-1 in the opener in an eleven-inning win which set sportswriters to prophesying. But three straight losses saw Churchill fall to the number nine spot in city polls. Jay and Marshall took early wins and all seemed lost until a late-season comeback by the scrappy Chargers. The impossible happened: the district race ended in a four-way tie, with WC holding on to a piece of the title and a chance to represent the district in play-offs. Close 1-0 wins over both Marshall and Jeff in a single-elimination tournament to determine the representative put the Chargers on top of the heap and sent Churchill into a bi-district play-off with Eagle Pass. The Eagles overcame Churchill in the first two games of the series by a 4-1 score both times.

During a tense moment in the 2-1 victory over Lee at BAC, Coach Schepppler discusses a call with the ump.

San Antonio's best

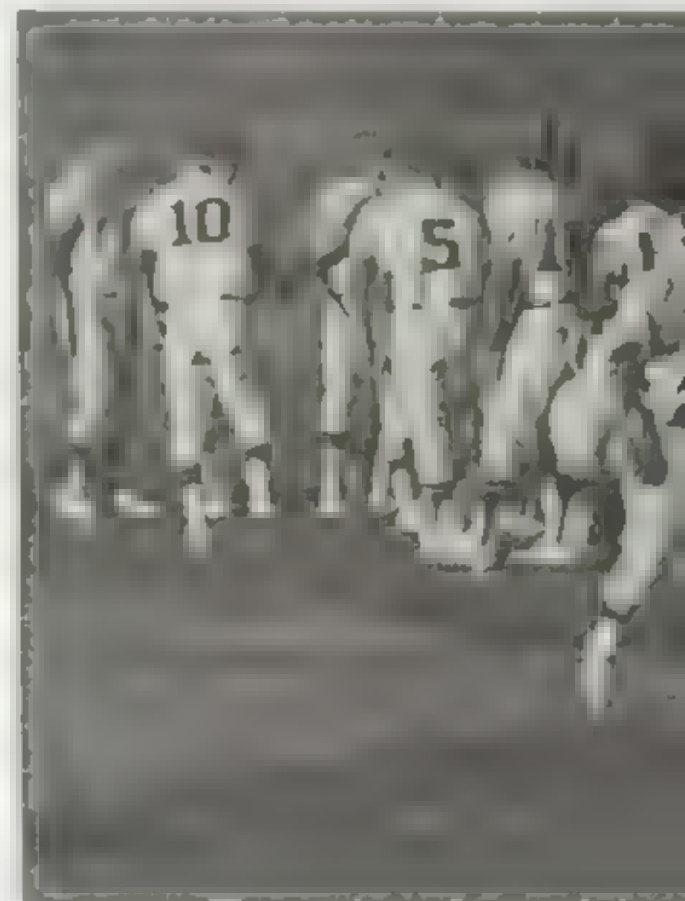

In pre-district play, Chargers swept all competition in the Kingsville and North East Tournaments and, at one time, held an eleven-game winning streak. Behind the strong arm of pitcher Tom Bepko and a team effort by the 21-member squad, the Chargers racked up the most wins of any team in the city, closing the season with a 22-8-2 record after play-offs.

Catcher Les Hemby's hit in the Jeff play-off game gave WC the winning run and a bi-district chance.

Pitcher Mayo Galindo, an all-city choice, was credited with the win in the second Holmes game.

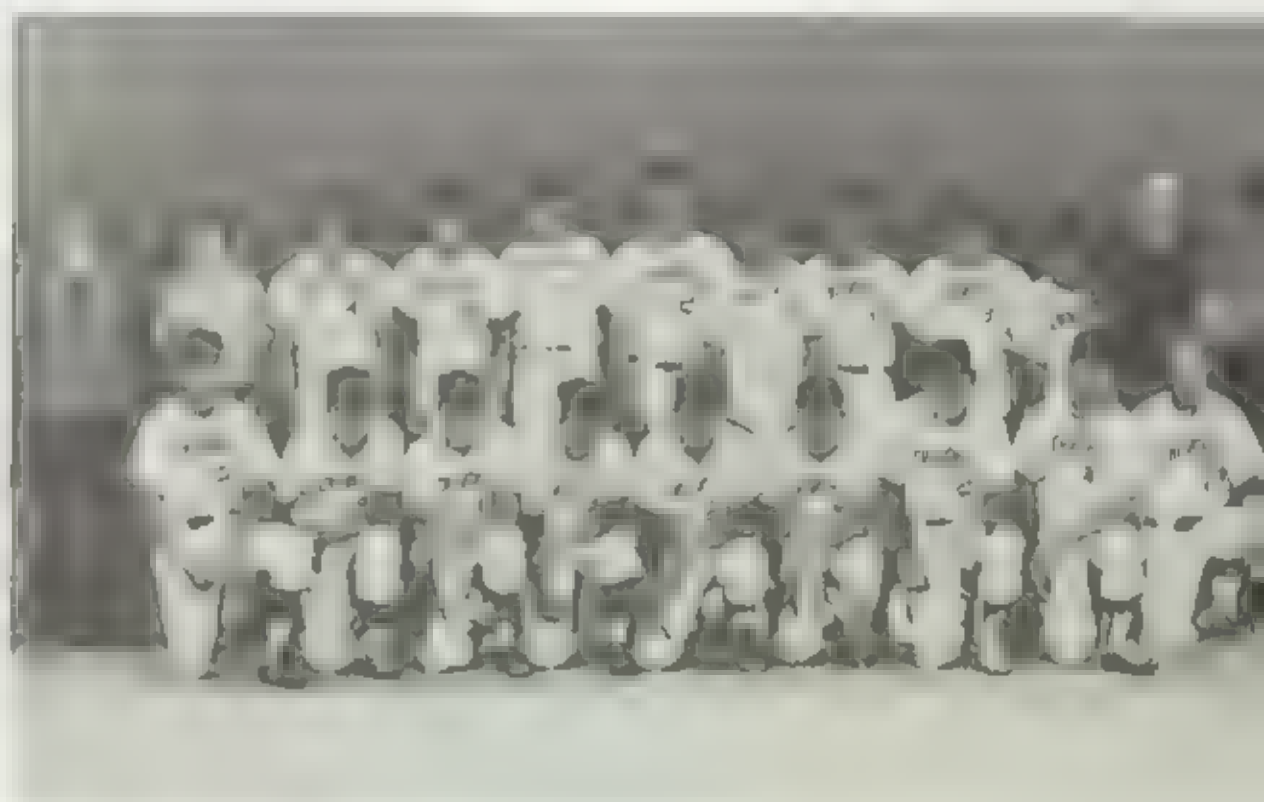

Dan Tauch (4) is congratulated on a homerun against the Huskies that also brought in Sebera (10) and Hemby (7).

Churchill Cindermen claim 31-AAAA crown

Led by sprint twins Chris Warren and Doak Neal, the Churchill track team climaxed a successful year by taking the District 31-AAAA Championship with little trouble. Warren and Neal sparked the team all season long with victories in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. Jimmy Donahue set the pace for the season by grabbing first place in the 120 high and the 330 intermediate hurdles in the first meet of the year, the Rattler Relays, where the Chargers found little competition.

The Alamo Relays was a different story, as the team totaled only 36 points against the toughest competition of the season. David Constanzo's school record of 12 feet in the pole vault offered little consolation for the disappointed Chargers. It was a determined Churchill track team that went to Seguin for the Matador Relays March 18. When the smoke had cleared, the Chargers had won the meet without taking a single first place ribbon, but by placing in all but one event.

Churchill captured third place in the Northeast Invitational meet against the same stiff competition at the Alamo Relays a few weeks before, where they finished ninth. Warren made the best showing of the meet for WC with a 10.1 second place in the 100. The 440 relay team of Neal, Warren, Donahue and George Jahant also took a second place, setting a school record of 42.5.

In a preview of the District 31-AAAA meet, the Chargers ran rough-shod over the nearest competitors, John Jay, in the Mule Relays. The Chargers totaled 94 1/3 points, far ahead of the other 14 squads. Warren scored 27 points for four events to take the high point honors for the meet. The only first place for the Chargers came in the 440 relay.

With push-button speed and lots of depth, the Chargers walked off with the record smashing District 31-AAAA Meet at Northside Stadium. The thin clads won five first place ribbons and totaled 148 points to easily outdistance second place Jay by 32 points. The five wins came in the 440 relay, Warren in the long jump, Donahue in the 120 hurdles, Warren and Neal, first and second in the 100 and Neal and Warren, first and second in the 220.

Overall, Churchill qualified eight individuals, the 440 and mile relay, for the regional meet, but no cindermen qualified for state competition.

Records fall in fleet year

The mile relay team of Richard Gay, Scott Doss, Scott Humphreys and Dwain Howard hold the school record with their winning time of 3:25.4 set at the Matador Relays this year.

Two-mile relay record holders are Paul Hermsdorf, Scott Becken, Steve Linahan and Richard Davila with a time of 8:24.4 recorded at the Alamo Relays.

At the North East Invitational Meet, Jim Donohue, Doak Neal, George Jahant and Chris Warren set a new school record in the 440 relays with a time of 42.5.

High hurdler Jim Donohue holds WC's record with 14.5 and took first in the event in district.

Mark Royall is WC's record holder in the pole vault with his jump of 13 feet at this year's district meet.

Churchill's record holder in the shot put with 51'4", Markley Mills took second in district trials to qualify for regional.

Doak Neal and Bob Leatherwood talk about conditioning with Coach Davis in the dressing room.

District long jump winner Chris Warren finished third in regional in this event, third in the 220 and sixth in the 100.

Large frosh squad has winners, depth

Ted Constanzo was the top point-getter of the freshman track team which competed this year in the newly organized North Loop League for ninth graders. Gary Lacheppel became the fastest freshman in the city in the 440. The team was fourth in the loop meet.

Pat Slagle and Bob Ousey tied for first at the Alamo Heights meet, each jumping 5'6". Coach Wayne Korbell noted that the team contained a lot of depth for future Charger varsity teams.

North Loop title holders of the freshman team included Gary Lacheppel, who won the 440 in 52.5, and Ted Constanzo, who took the pole vault win at 11'6".

Standing to receive recognition at the All Sports Banquet is Roni Garza, who was chosen All-District and Most Valuable Player in volleyball.

With every girl making an outstanding effort, the Varsity volleyball team finished with 6-12 and 5-9 records for A and B teams, respectively, to complete their first year of competition.

Captains for the A team were Mary Pat Hazuda and Roni Garza. Roni was also chosen for the All-District volleyball team. The B team was captained by Cindy Shaw and Nancy Shey.

Gymnasts champs in first year

In their first year of competition, Churchill's gymnastic team took the Region II High School Team Championship at the meet in Austin in April. Teri Durst, Mary Yerrington, and Carol Uretsky accumulated the points to take the sweepstakes award.

A meet at Odessa was the team's first move into intraschool competition and a clinic in Austin during the Christmas holidays prepared the team for the South Texas AAU Meet which Churchill hosted in February.

Teri took first in all-around competition and vault and Carol was first in bars at the Reagan Meet in February. In regional competition, Teri was second in all-around competition, third in vault and fifth on bars; Mary took third in all-around, second on bars and fourth in vault. Carol was first in bars, third in beam, third in floor exercises and fifth in vault. Mrs. Karen Blume coached the team.

Palladium reveals new talent

Costumes from all over the world array the dancers for the theme "It's a Small World!"

Jill Staewen and her feather-brained friends flutter their wings to "Rock-a-Robin."

"What better way to start our show than with a salute to our neighbors? Say hello, world!" On October 1 and 2 in Churchill auditorium, Mistress and Master of Ceremonies Linda Gauntt and Hampton Lewis were our guides throughout this talent presentation. There was music and mimicry, twirling and tap dancing, action and applause. We were entertained in extremes: from classical piano music to classic comedy, a thespian satire on the usual complaints to songs about the unusual "toad suckers," and stunning Broadway musicals to the trash-can band. This was a memorable experience for all, and as the performers were saying "hello world!" we were asked to say hello to the 1971-1972 Churchill world of drama. All agreed that this year's Palladium was the start of something big!

Pat Meadows struggles in vain against the forces of nature that starve Man's life of success in "Futility."

As the lights dimmed in the CHS auditorium, the audience wondered what to expect as Churchill Drama Department presented a new type of theatre — the Theatre of the Absurd. The skits were modernistic satires of several of today's institutions including The Interview on mechanized life, Act Without Words on futility, and the Leader on politics. Under a college director, the actors received much acclaim for their professional job of this difficult form of dramatics.

In "The Bald Soprano," Lois Witherspoon offers her poem "Fire" as members of the elite society display loss of communication in background.

Young audiences filled the Churchill Auditorium four consecutive days to experience the magical journey to see THE WIZARD OF OZ, the Children's Theatre presentation for 1972. Along the yellow-brick road February 2 and 3 came classes from local elementary and nursery schools. Performances Friday night and Saturday afternoon followed for students and adults who were still young at heart. All were fascinated by excellent sound and stage effects, colorful costumes and make-up and an array of delightful new talents performing. It was a two-hour song and dance fantasy with an underlying message that appealed to all ages.

Finian's Rainbow . . . sort of grandish!

"Something Sort of Grandish" was the Churchill Drama Department's production of Finian's Rainbow in May which made Robert White in his role of Finian Mac Loneran, the school's hottest new stage personality. His performance of the sly Irish immigrant provided the humorous background for the beautiful voices of veteran singers Linda Gauntt and David Lester who portrayed Sharon and Woody, the couple bewitched by love.

Fine supporting roles by Danny Geisler as Og the Leprechaun and Lane Ferrero as Susan the Silent were backed by a huge cast of dancers and singers and the Churchill orchestra. The two-week-end run was a sellout as the fame of annual musicals directed by Mrs. Doris Hury has spread across the city.

Glittering stars of the annual musical were Robert White and Linda Gauntt.

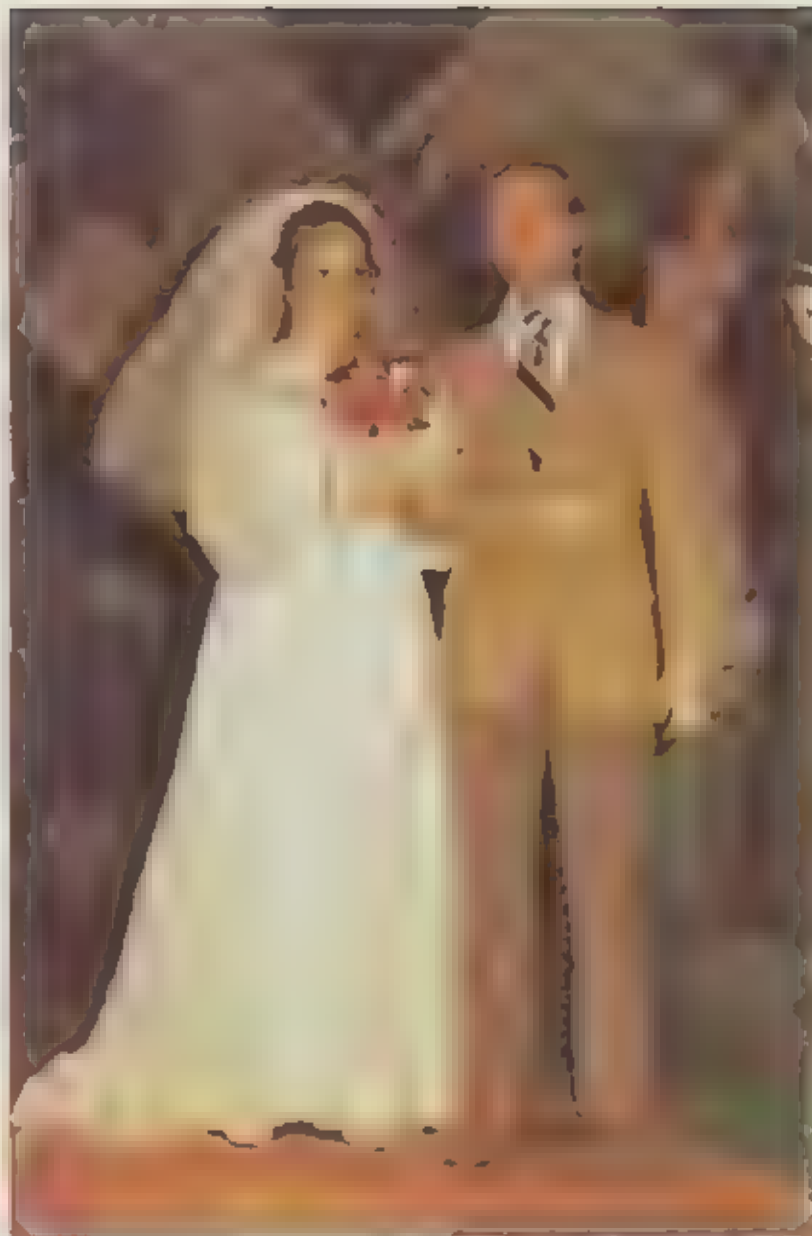

Sharecroppers Deanna Leopard and Marie Brinker take off with the chorus during a lazy day in the field to complain about "Necessity."

"You mean you're a real leprechaun?" Little Andy Jacobs and some other children from the Valley meet the delightful Og, played by Danny Geisler.

The cast sings about the possibility of the Idle Poor Becoming the Idle Rich

Linda Gauntt as Sharon Mac Lonergan is wed to David Lester, as Woody Mahoney, amid the wedding chorus "Look to the Rainbow."

"Look, come quick, Sharon!" Old Finian Mac Lonergan, played by Robert White, has reached his destination in the Rainbow Valley, U.S.A.

A new arrival in "rich" America, Sharon anticipates the reaction of the Rainbow Valley townspeople.

A talented group of people behind the scenes was responsible for the success of the musical. Mr. Matt Tracy as technical director, Miss Linda Mulder as choral director, Mr. Tom Kinsey as musical director, Mrs. Nancy Tiner as choreographer and Mr. James Thompson as construction supervisor added professional touches. Karine Berghauser assisted the director and Suzy Batt served as stage manager. The colorful set was designed by Danny Geisler.

. . . a bomb

They came back. Nancy Whidden and Mark Khuel returned following the evacuation to enjoy the prom.

The Juniors had the evening billed as one of enchantment, but there was some debate about that adjective when a bomb scare interrupted the annual prom for more than an hour. Upperclassmen and dates spent a lot of time in the parking lot . . . because the Turtle Creek Country Club, scene of the dance, was cleared out until the threat could be investigated.

Most of the small crowd of 200 returned to enjoy the rest of the evening dancing to the music of "Homer."

Among the students recognized were varsity athletic lettermen, UIL literary event participants, all-district band and choir members and National Honor Society members. Graduates who had already been awarded college scholarships were recognized. Department heads cited students who were outstanding in each academic area and honor graduates, robed in red, were decorated with chords representing their academic achievement.

Baseball playoffs . . . the first for WC

The sports season seemed to be coming to a close. The baseball team was the only squad in action, but they had lost several district games and all hopes of a title seemed to have disappeared. Then, suddenly, district teams met for the last time, favorites were upset, and the Chargers were tied for the championship! In a play-off, they earned the right to be district representative and enter the state playoffs . . . the first Charger team ever to go into state eliminations.

Spirit resurged. School was dismissed early as large groups of students went to Trinity to watch WC eliminate Marshall and Jefferson. Early morning pep rallies were scheduled again. A trip to Eagle Pass for bi-district rounds was full. The Chargers fell to the Eagles, but those last days became a highlight of the year as the red, black and white came through to the end.

SENIORS SUPERLATIVES

Sitting on a trash can . . . who can? we can! declare the MOST INDIVIDUALISTIC seniors, Barbara Aust and Kemper Crabb.

Glenn Grossenbacher helps Sharon Eastman shop for mod clothes in the mall. After all, they must keep up appearances as they were elected the MOST UP TO-DATE seniors

Lucy Brown said it, "Trees eat kites," and even the MOST VERSATILE seniors, Eddie Sebera and Linda Gauntt couldn't solve the problem.

"We do a lot of goofy stuff and clown around a lot, Kari Titsworth explained when she and Toby Stoihandske were elected MOST VIVACIOUS. On this day they had a truck load of hay and climbed atop it.

Demonstrating one of their many talents, the MOST ACCOMPLISHED seniors, Bill White and Karen Marker, insist there's nothing to the trick

Confident that Alex Van Der Bruggen won't pull the football away because she is his counterpart is the MOST DEPENDABLE seniors, Larry McCabe prepares to kick

The helpless ingenue is tied to the tracks! The villain twirling his handle-bar mustache hovers over her! Never fear, it's only the WITTIEST seniors, Jimmy Donahue and Jill Staewen clowning again.

District leaders . . . seeing things done well

Dr. Fitzwater makes one of numerous appearances at district wide events

Summing up the collective attitude of trustees, Mr Donald Harris observed, "People need to give of themselves, not pass responsibility on to others if they want to see things done well." Another trustee explained his participation by saying, "I devote my time in return for the educational contributions to my children." A devoted group, they agree that the greatest advancement in the district in recent years has been in improved technical and vocational programs. All point with pride to the fact that North East is "one of the best fully accredited districts in the country."

A frequent visitor to all North East schools, Dr Fitzwater confers with Dr. Burchard on the Churchill campus.

WC's administrators . . .

Churchill's administrators are individuals with differing personalities and philosophies, yet they share a common goal: dedication to this high school and its students. A "good day" for an administrator is many things. To Dr. Burchard, it is a day "when people show mutual respect;" to Mrs. Buckner, it is a day when "enthusiasm for the curriculum is evidenced by teachers and students alike." Pride in the student body is an emotion that an administrator must have, and Mr. Jungman's "Super Charger" bulletin board is evidence of that pride. Mr. Bill Parry is usually accompanied by a student or two in his strolls through the hall or across the patio at noon. Usually he and the students are enjoying the encounter.

. . . sharing a common goal

Super Chargers, students who have brought honor to WCHS, are "framed" by Mr. Tom Jungman, Assistant Principal for Student Services.

Mr. Bill Parry, Administrative Aide, along with Karen Hansen and Bill Green, offer congratulations to newly elected Parliament officers Lynn Issacks and Thad Harkins.

Bells rang early but checks were thawed

Early August marked the beginning of our 1971-1972 school year, and while other faculties were continuing to enjoy summer vacations, members of the staff at WCHS were calling roll. Yet, because our school bells rang sooner, our teachers were the only ones whose pay raise went into effect before President Nixon's price freeze. Maybe starting in August wasn't such a bad idea after all!

Even earlier than this August 16 bell was the assembly of the faculty a week before. Only one week to prepare for 2289 scholastics. AGR cards, directory cards, lunch cards the "card games" that advisors play to set up the files for a new year. And the faculty are involved in the spirit activities as well as the administrative issues. They attend the bond issue orientation meeting, PTA's Open House and prepared the first six week's grade cards, yet they find the time to be dressed for color day . . . they're part of the Charger scene. A sign above a box in the teachers' lounge reads: "Donate $ 25 for the faculty's 'Beat Lee' sign at Central Park"

Mr. Matt Tracy aligns the camera before video taping a broadcast.

Returning from the Christmas Holidays, teachers and students alike had a chance to start fresh . . . a new semester. Some of the faculty were called on to review textbooks up for adoption; others, Miss Shirley Kasper and Mr. Matt Tracey, began serving on a district committee to review grooming codes, and the day-to-day duties of teaching, grading, and sponsoring student activities continued. Students enjoyed a holiday on Presidents' Day, but teachers came to school for inservice. A baby shower for Mrs. Kay Ingram and a bridal shower for Mrs. Dorothy Miller Burns were opportunities to meet together informally. The state convention of the Texas State Teachers Association met in San Antonio in 1972, and local faculty members attended in mass. A glorious ten-day Easter holiday fortified the faculty for the fight against senioritis, spring fever, and finals fatigue. The assurance that June would come was a comfort.

Acknowledgements

The first person I would like to thank is my family, who have supported me throughout my life.

My friends, who have been there for me through thick and thin.

My teachers, who have inspired me to reach for my dreams.

My school, who has provided me with the resources I need to succeed.

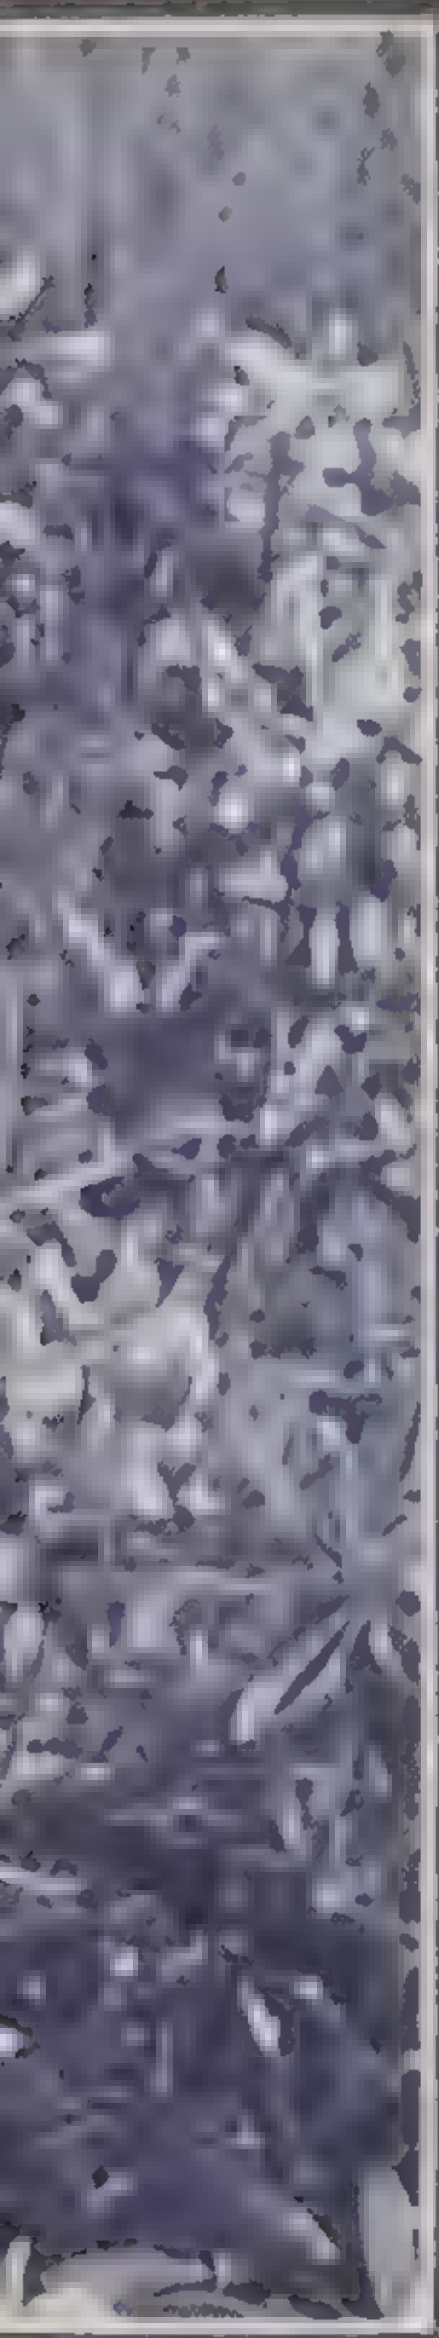

My community, who have shown me the power of unity.

My future, who is full of possibilities and hope.

My past, who has taught me the value of experience.

My present, who is the most beautiful time of my life.

Myself, who has made this yearbook possible.

To meet, to love, to know, and then to part.

Coleridge
